
PREFACE

Dear readers,

When the first issue of The Proceedings of the Islamic Pedagogical Faculty was published in 2003, the vision of Editorial Board was to affirm the Proceedings, a voice of the Faculty, as an academic serial publication recognized by high criteria of selecting papers, edited according to contemporary standards and indexed in academic database.

Today, ten years later, when we proudly present you the tenth, jubilee issue of the Proceedings, we can say that we have achieved our ambitious goal. Along with continuous growth of the Faculty and broadening of its scientific-research scope, the Proceedings have become better in quality with every new issue and due to a great effort of its main actors – authors, reviewers, lecturers, translators, a technical editor – all of which enabled its licensing and entering in EBSCO and CEEOL databases.

The tenth issue of The Proceedings of the Islamic Pedagogical Faculty presents you twenty-two new papers which are, according to reviewers, mainly scientific papers and belong to fields of religious sciences, Islamic thought and civilization, social research and language and literature.

Based on their detailed insights into research problems and contemporary research paradigms, the authors – our professors and associates, our colleagues from other faculties and similar institutions – selflessly enrich our knowledge with new scientific-research findings.

We hope that the research results and themes of the papers will be interesting and useful for our dear readers, and to all of those who have been part of these ten years of the Proceedings, we congratulate on the jubilee and express our sincere gratitude.
